

Threads of connection -

short documentary series about London

I way to create a series of short films (1-2 min long).

I'd be interviewing my classmates about moving to London and their thoughts about living here.

I hope to explore feelings of isolation and loneliness in being an international student/students who move cities. But I want to explore the connections people make in the city.

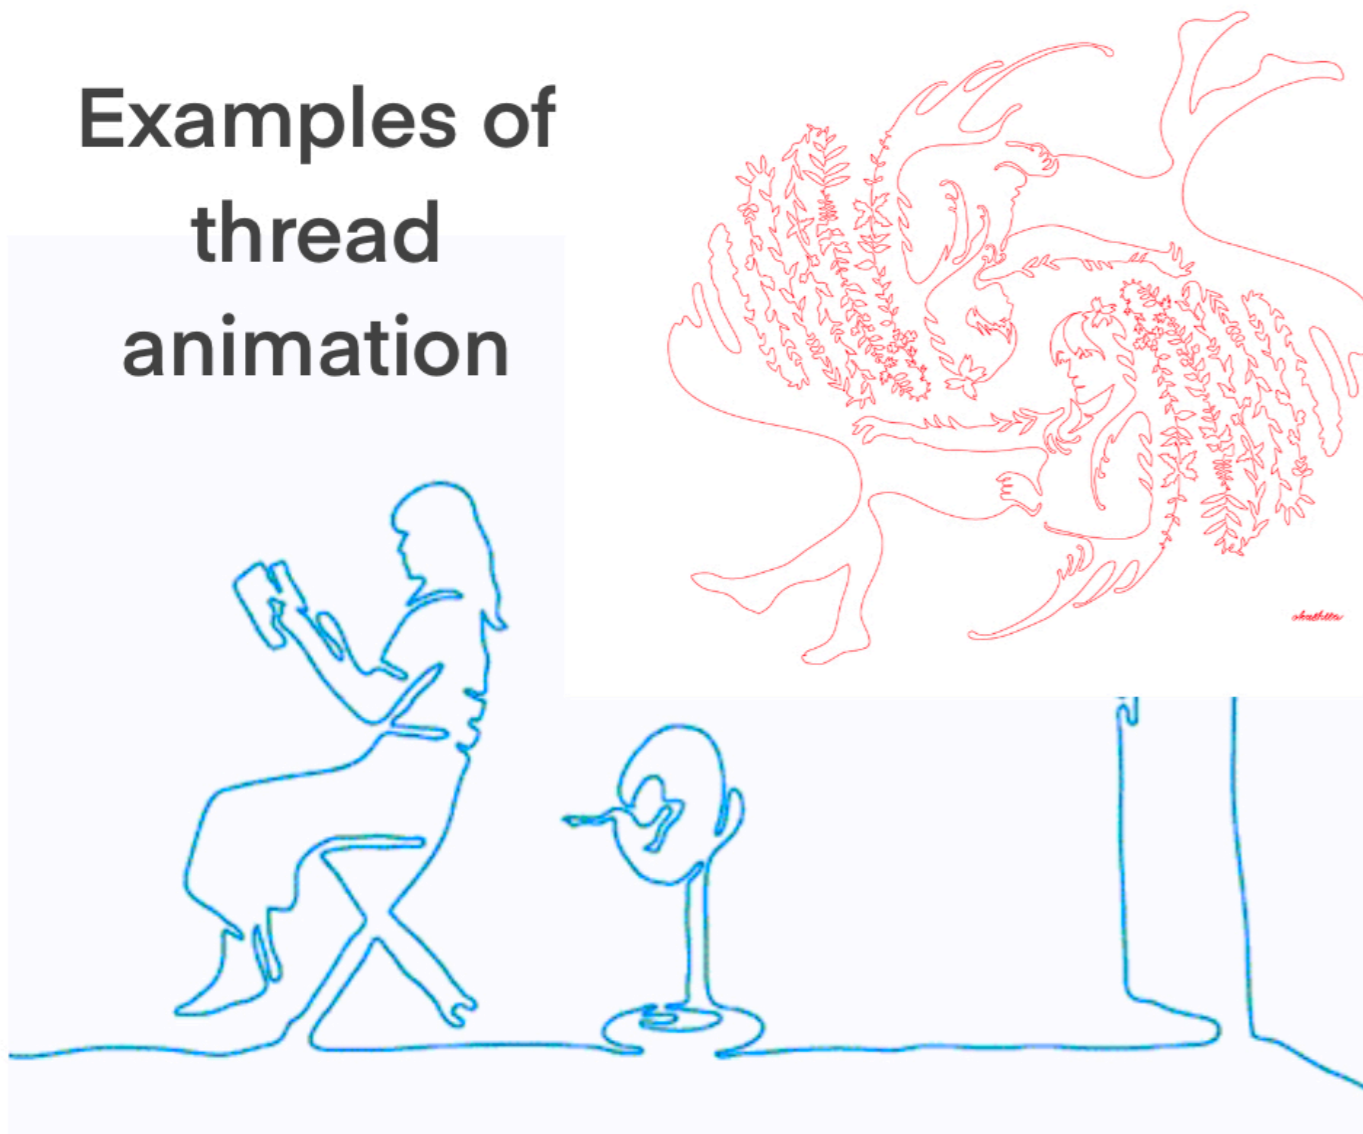

← I want to create animated scenes around their quotes

← could be both positive or negative

Style of Animation

Examples of thread
animation

Above is an example from a film I made about homesickness. I made it in a day but the film was till impactful and got the point across successfully.

I like using thread on a textured fabric to animate. I think it creates a fluid and recognisable image without too much detail.

Concepts

I've spoken about various concepts with my friends and have a couple different things to explore but the imagery will really come to fruition once I've got quotes jotted down. I was hoping to narrate it myself. Or find someone who was interested in narrating.
